

CONTACTUM
Engineered quality, reliability & design

For almost 75 years Contactum has been manufacturing and designing switches, sockets and circuit protection; it remains as one of only a few who still manufactures here in the UK.

The Contactum brand has gained an enviable reputation for Quality, Reliability and Safety and is an obvious choice for the Specifier and Architect alike.

All Contactum products have been designed to satisfy the ever increasing demands of the installer, with easy installation and time saving solutions they become the chosen products for the professional electrician.

In particular Contactum are able to offer the most comprehensive and largest range of circuit protection that now complies with the 17th Edition of IEE Wiring Regulations. In addition to this, Contactum are also able to offer many bespoke products and a design service from its manufacturing facilities here in London.

Customer Service is a key ingredient to any company's success and at Contactum we pride ourselves in ensuring the highest level of customer support, starting from the distribution through to the contractor and down to the end user, making Contactum the one to choose.
